

CONTINUE CAVALRY FIGHT NEAR BELGIAN FRONTIER SAYS LATE PARIS REPORT

GERMANS HAVE BEEN DRIVEN BACK IN ENGAGEMENT BETWEEN LASSIGNY AND ROYE.

OSTEND IS IN DANGER

Kaiser's Forces Believed To Be Pushing Toward Seaport Where Belgian-English Ar- mies Are Concentrated.

The official war news is brief today, but official statements are not needed to make plain that momentous results hang on the fortunes of the desperate battle now being waged at vital points on the line that stretches from Switzerland through northern France and within twenty-five miles of the straight of Dover.

Heaviest fighting is on the line of Lassigny and Lems. This afternoon official reports from Paris say that the Allies repulsed the German attack between Arras and the Oise and that cavalry engagements continue in the region of La Bassée, Estaires and Hazebrouck. Special attention is directed to Ostend, where has been assembled greater parts of the Belgian army and about two-thirds of the British forces which escaped from Antwerp. It is believed that Germans pushing forward to attack this city in the hopes of capturing and using the forts in operations against England.

Struggles to keep the Germans from the coast are inevitable. Today's reports indicate that the German cavalry advanced here less than 30 miles from Ostend.

The strength of the Allies at Ostend is not known. It is possible that British re-enforcements, unable to reach Antwerp in time to help in defense of that city, are now in Ostend.

Vienna claims that the Russian attack on Przemyśl, the strong fortress in Austria Galicia, has failed. Berlin asserts that the Russian advance on the East Prussian frontiers has been checked, while the Germans are steadily working eastward in Russian Poland.

Neutral sources report cholera spreading in Austria.

German airmen dropped two bombs in Paris this morning.

Paris, October 12.—The following official communications were given out in Paris this afternoon:

"First—On our left wing the cavalry engagement continues in the region of La Bassée and Hazebrouck. Between Arras and the Oise the enemy delivered severe attacks which failed notably between Lassigny and Roye.

"Second—On the center we have made some progress on the plateau on the right bank of the Aisne in front of Sedan and to the south-east of Verdun.

"Third—On our right wing in the Vosges, the enemy delivered a night attack in the region of Ban De Sae, to the north of St. Die. They were repulsed.

"The flag captured yesterday belonged to the sixteenth regiment of active Pomeranian infantry No. 49 of the 20th corps of the Prussian army. The brigade of marine aviators was engaged during all the day of October 9 and the night of October 9 and 10 against German forces, and repulsed them and at same time inflicted heavy losses amounting to 200 killed and 50 prisoners. The French lost about nine killed and 20 wounded.

"In the Belgian field according to the latest information received here concerning the position at Antwerp, the Germans occupy up to the present time only the suburbs of this city. The twenty-four forts on the banks of the river Escaut are resisting with energy.

"In Russia the fighting still continues with fierceness. On the front of East Prussia to the north-west of the city of Lyubovitz the Germans are retreating at the same time destroying bridges.

"In Southern Poland between Ivanograd and Sandomir, there has been a heavy fighting with columns of the enemy who have reached the Vistula. Fog Delays Battle.

Washington, October 12.—The following message was received this morning by the French embassy here:

POLICE VOLUNTEERS COMPOSED OF WOMEN

Company of London Suffragists Are Drilling for Service in British Cities.

London, Oct. 12.—Founded by suffragists, a Women's volunteer police force is drilling daily for duty. They call themselves the women police volunteers and are an off-shoot of the Women's Freedom League of which Mrs. Despard, a sister of Sir John French, is the head. When they are ready for active service they will get a fetching uniform to give them a semi-official status. A navy blue serge costume of a smart military cut with a hard felt hat like a bowler with a flat brim and a belt will make up the outfit. Brass letters, "W. V. P." on the shoulder strap, a metal badge on the front of the hat, and a special badge denoting the duty division, such as "P" for park and number of the constable on the collar and such necessary implements as a whistle, a baton, a pocket watch, a pocket torch, will complete the equipment.

The new policewomen are already hard at work learning the duties of self-defense, police drill, signaling, police court procedure, and first aid. Every woman so far enrolled has had to pass a medical examination as to physical fitness and a special badge taken only to accept those otherwise qualified to undertake this new responsibility.

The ages range from 30 to 45. The force is led by a chief (Miss Damer Dawson), deputy chief (Miss Nina Boyle), inspector in chief (Mrs. Meehan Coates), and an investigator in chief (Mrs. Edith Watson), who is a sort of chief clerk and a charge officer (Mrs. N. K. Strange).

The present headquarters are at Westminster and local stations are to be established in various parts of the city. Other forces are to be formed in the provinces and one has already been started in Scotland. The minimum duty will be two hours a day and the maximum eight. The women will work in the streets, on railroads, and in police courts but at present will do no patrolling on regular beats. Their chief work will be to look after the interests of children and to help in the streets and on the roads. Though they have no official recognition, their movement has official sympathy and very influential backing. The chief aim of its promoters is to show the value of a women's police force, and to get a permanent state force established. The present movement, though begun by suffragists, is being kept apart from any suggestion of suffrage cause and is being run as a strictly non-party body.

Cholera Still Spreading.

Now that the opposing force are deployed in a comparatively level country, shorter periods of vigorous fighting are expected to produce decisive results than did the engagement while the opposing line were entrenched against each other.

From Austria comes reports by way of Italy of the rapid spread of cholera in the Alpine region, and the Austrian troops on account of the unusually cold weather.

The Rome newspapers commenting on the appointment of General D'Amico as Italian Minister of war consider it significant that he should have been born in Cato D'Alba, an Italian province still in the possession of Austria. Under the new minister it is expected that preparations to place the army on a war footing will be hurried, but Italy apparently is still firm in the determination to remain neutral.

Berlin Statement.

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The general staff of the German army announced today that in beginning a strong garrison defense of Antwerp with great energy, but that after the fall of the city, the infantry and marine divisions of the defenders fled in full rout. Among the Antwerp garrison was one British marine brigade.

Belgian-English.

The complete collapse of the defense of Antwerp was shown by the fact that no military authorities could be found in Antwerp, and that the city was surrendered to the Germans. Their surrender was finally negotiated by the burgomaster.

General Von Bessler, who has been decorated with the Order of Merit for his capture of Antwerp, issued a proclamation to the people saying that no one would be harmed unless their committed hostilities on the German side.

"Resistance," he announced, "will cause the destruction of your city."

Private property in Antwerp was spared.

Repulse Night Attack.

"Third—On our right wing in the Vosges, the enemy delivered a night attack in the region of Ban De Sae, to the north of St. Die. They were repulsed.

LONDON SPECULATES REGARDING ANTWERP

UNLESS HOLLAND'S NEUTRALITY IS VIOLATED ENGLAND WILL NOT BE MENACED.

BASE OF OPERATIONS

City is Important Link in Line of Communication With German Army in France.

London, October 12.—Except for a flood of vital details regarding the fall of Antwerp, the British public has been practically cut off from news from the front for twelve hours. It is thought, however, that events of tremendous moment either are occurring or are pending in the area about Lille, where the cavalry of the contending forces has been in violent conflict for a week.

Advantage of Antwerp.

The military critics for the London morning papers devote their space to speculation regarding the utility of Antwerp for German offense or defense. Most of them agree that unless Dutch neutrality is violated, Antwerp will be of no more use in forwarding the Germans' purpose in making Zeppelin and naval raids on England than other places in Belgium, which have been so occupied for some time by the invaders. They agree, however, that for military purposes in the western theater of war the occupation of Antwerp is of supreme importance to Germany, which will be able to unleash several divisions to aid the sorely pressed right wing. Furthermore, the capture of the city will insure the lines of communication should retreat be necessary to Belgium.

Damage May be Slight.

Additional details of the shelling of Antwerp indicate that the damage will not be so great as at first estimated. The damage inflicted on the city by the German artillery may be set off in large nature by the great destruction wrought on German shipping in the harbor by the British. The official communication from Belgium states that no information is yet available as to the amount of booty taken in the town.

Diary Tells of Siege.

The story of the siege of Antwerp told in the form of a diary which covers the events taken place between Oct. 2 and Oct. 8, inclusive, has been sent to the Morning Post by its Antwerp correspondent. It follows:

"October 2. The position seems practically hopeless, the southern section of the forts having been subdued and the Belgian field artillery being unable to stand out against the heavier German guns, and the surrender of the city on Saturday, Oct. 8rd, seemed likely, when news came that the queen had arrived in Belgium. The queen, a British name that spirits arose among the populace and soldiers.

"October 3. A wave of almost frantic confidence runs over the city. Preparations for the departure of the government has been suspended and the word has passed that the situation is saved. The king and king are in the city.

Lull in Attack Sunday.

"Oct. 4. The cheerfulness continues. The churches were crowded all day. There is a lull in the German attack. The first British force which arrived in the city on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, seemed likely, when news came that the queen had arrived in Belgium. The queen, a British name that spirits arose among the populace and soldiers.

"When the Germans ventured out into the open, we showed them the map of the city. The map shows that the German attack was necessarily centered at Lierre as this was the one offering the least water distance to the advanced German lines. The queen arrived in the city at the same time as the queen.

All day Monday the Mote river was held with the help of further British troops. The queen arrived in the city at the same time as the queen.

"The queen arrived in the city at the same time as the queen.

HERE'S WONDER WORKER OF BASEBALL

George T. Stallings.

Though he may go down to defeat in the world's series, which seems likely, George T. Stallings, manager of the Boston Braves, will still deserve the title of "the wonder worker of baseball." No other manager has ever accomplished the feat which stands to his credit—of bringing a team from the last position in the league to the first after the season was half over.

QUEEN OF HOLLAND INSPECTS HER ARMY

Is Personally Solicitors for Comfort of Soldiers Now Mobilized Along The Border.

The Hague, Oct. 12.—Queen Wilhelmina of Holland takes the greatest interest in her army. During the last two weeks she has made several tours of inspection along the border, looking into matters strictly military and paying special attention to the health and comfort of her men.

Of her most recent trip to the Limburg border the Meijerische Courant tells the following story, part of which is borne in mind that the queen is no longer the sweet young girl of yore, but with advancing years has increased in weight considerably.

"After a review of the troops, says the paper, 'Her Majesty went to a nearby barn, in front of which a sentry was on duty. Some of the men had been housed in the barn.

"The queen, who is a very practical woman, how she could get to the upper floor of the barn, the sentry replied that a ladder—a most primitive, rickety affair—was the only means of access. The queen eyed the ladder for a moment, and then began the ascent slowly, steadying herself by seizing the beams.

"When she arrived on the floor she found that it was the quarters of a number of soldiers, who, seeing the queen before them so suddenly were unable to reply promptly to her question: 'Are you satisfied boys?'

"But the smartest of the company soon gathered his wits and replied: 'Well satisfied, Your Majesty.'

"And how is the food?"

"Very good, Your Majesty!"

"How are conditions otherwise?"

"Beginning to be a little cold, Your Majesty!"

BUSH VERSUS TYLER

Tied at End of the Ninth Inning— Both Teams Play Air- tight Ball.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Boston not only celebrated Columbus day this afternoon, but also went baseball crazy over the third game of the world baseball series. It was a banner crowd that swarmed to the National league park. It was an enthusiastic assembly of fans from all over the world, every move of the Braves, winners of the first two games, and sought by every means possible to cheer their favorites to victory.

Philadelphia was not without friends, and they cheered as the players tramped onto the field, with faces set and determined. Even when Baker struck out they did not lose courage and kept on rooting as hard as ever. It was a grueling contest. From start to finish the plays were fast and furious.

Bush, the little chap that tamed the Giants last year, started the game for the Athletics. He was Connie Mack's best bet and behind the stick Wally Schirmer, who had played for the St. Louis Browns, was the pitcher for the Athletics. The game was a grueling contest. From start to finish the plays were fast and furious.

The second inning resulted in goose eggs for both teams while the third gave each another marker. Score two to two. The fourth and fifth innings followed in the fifth and sixth.

The seventh and eighth bouts resulted in goose eggs and then came the ninth. The excitement was intense, the crowds fairly standing on edge for the ninth inning, which resulted in goose eggs.

The line-up was as follows:

Philadelphia: Moran, 1b; Murphy, 2b; Collins, 3b; Baker, 4b; McNish, 5b; Strunk, 6b; Barry, 7b; Schang, 8b; Bush, 9b.

Umpires—National league, Klem and Byron; American league, Dineen and Hildebrand.

WAR QUARREL FATAL; MURDER AND SUICIDE

Ashland, Wis., October 12.—George Caspar, a Hungarian, lured his employer, Rudy Walsack, a Pole, into the woods Sunday afternoon and shot him dead. Caspar then returned to the house and informed the victim's wife of the murder. He then delivered a message and letter which was written by him, and then went into the house. He held the revolver in his stomach and then tearing a large hole in his side, but did not kill himself.

Mrs. Walsack succeeded in resting the gun from the man before he reloaded. Caspar crawled out of the house beside a wood pile, seized an ax and cut several gashes in his head. He lay on the ground and threatened the woman before help arrived.

When assistance arrived from Ashland the woman was trying to explode the cartridge near his body. Caspar died two hours later. The men were quarreling over the war.

Generals in retirement are obtaining commission in the landwehr corps, while teachers in the schools who hitherto have been exempt from military duty are now being compelled to enter active service.

BIG FALL FESTIVAL BEGINS AT MADISON

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—With the city in festive array, streets decorated with American flags, merchants' windows aglow with colored lights, con-stables and policemen busy taking covering every large vacant place in the center of the city, Madison today began her fall festival, for which the Board of Commerce has been preparing for months. The United States Marine band, the "president's own," will give two concerts tomorrow, and tonight there will be a farmers' picnic and barbecue eating at night with a fireworks display and concert. Many agricultural and industrial exhibits and an automobile show give the festival the character of a county fair. An historical pageant, "The Star Spangled Banner," will be given Wednesday with several hundred participants in the capitol park. It will commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the writing of the song of that name.

EFFICIENCY NEEDED IN CHURCH WORKERS

REV. EDGAR T. FARRELL OF MILWAUKEE OCCUPIES PULPIT AT BAPTIST CHURCH.

MORE MEN ARE WANTED

Business Demands Efficient Service. Should the Church be Content With Less, Speaker Asks.

"Not until the Christian church realizes that it must have the best of efficient service on the part of its workers, can it rise to the dignity and efficiency of achievement, which it ought to hold in its name," declared the Rev. Edgar T. Farrell, D. D., of Milwaukee, general secretary of the Wisconsin Christian Endeavor Union, in his address last evening at the Baptist church. "Getting the Combination" was the theme and he urged the equal need of hundred per cent men in church work as in the realm of business.

Remarking upon the fact that some of the young people of today do not seem to be alive to their opportunities, Dr. Farrell pointed out that it was the purpose of the Christian Endeavor to assist these same young people so that they can decide between values and make the best of wonderful opportunities that are offered to them.

"Efficiency," said the speaker, "is the greatest idea which now permeates all modern enterprise. Hundred per cent men who are masters of the work which is assigned to them in the complexity of business, are always in demand. The supply is never adequate." Dr. Farrell mentioned instances of this rigorous demand for efficiency in mercantile and industrial establishments as well as upon the great railroad systems of the land. Efficiency, he said, had come to be a virtue of business and even the retail liquor dealer had come to demand that their bartenders shall not drink so that their efficiency may not be lessened.

"With this idea of efficiency in mind," continued Dr. Farrell, "I want to ask two questions and have you answer them in all sincerity to yourselves. And the first is this: If those who are dealing out liquid death are demanding efficiency in men and methods, what should be demanded of those who are dealing out the bread of life? This is no time for lackadaisical effort on the part of the church of Christ. And yet when men of affairs look into the methods which are used in our churches today they are amazed at the slipshod, unbusinesslike systems employed. The church has been slow to keep up with the changes which have revolutionized business and policies. It cannot understand that the church must be had and that a start must be made with the young men and the young women. The hope of big business lies with the young men and the hope of the Christian church lies with the same source."

The second question which he wished to ask is this: If those who are building the foundations of art and industry need efficiency in methods and men who of those who are building the foundations of character? Efficiency here, inefficiency there. Is common sense? Is it right? You admit that efficiency is needed in the church but you ask, how shall we get it? What is the combination? Your deeds thrown into gear with God's thoughts react here. There was one man who got the combination and it consisted of four parts God and three parts Moses, giving a total of seven, a number signifying completeness. Moses was a founder of a civilization, not merely the leader of a nation.

"We who do not know what the morrow day bring forth, ought to be prepared for our call as was Moses. We need preparation. We do not realize our own possibilities; we have no conception of the power that is in us."

"What we need is to get the combination. What part can you furnish? You ask. Maybe only three-fourths of it. Jesus will give more than three-fourths of the way of which the other six and a quarter. Won't you do it? It is easy to get the combination under such conditions. All it requires is faith, simple and unshaken faith.

In conclusion I will say that there are three things which it is necessary to believe in order to get the combination: First—To have faith in your calling, then faith in ourselves or ability to look into our own souls, and lastly faith in God. Use what you have and make the best of your opportunities, if you would be hundred per cent workers in the cause of Christ."

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD A MEETING TUESDAY

Mass Convention at City Hall Arranged for Purpose of Starting Campaign in Wisconsin.

As an opening of the campaign in Rock county, democrats from all over the county will gather at a mass meeting in the assembly room of the Janesville city hall at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. The gathering will be in the nature of a conference where ideas may be exchanged and general plans laid for an active campaign.

LEAGUE CONSIDERS NEED OF REST ROOM

Executive Committee Decides to Refer Project to Welfare Committee—Other Matters Discussed.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Civic League held on Friday at the home of Mrs. J. S. Taylor, the matter of a public rest room was discussed at length and was declared to be one of the city's greatest needs. In consequence the project was referred to the public welfare committee for action and a definite plan will be drawn up for the consideration of the league at a future meeting.

By a unanimous vote of the board it was decided to reappoint all standing committees, and Mrs. G. H. Ruml was elected chairman of the vice-presidents of the wards.

There was considerable discussion of the need of enforcing several city ordinances which would make for the comfort of city and country people alike. Those who drive horses, it was noted, are put to great inconvenience by the blocking of the hitching posts by automobiles. As it is often impossible to find any place to hitch within the business district, traffic regulations should be more rigorously lived up to. Also the smoke nuisance was discussed at some length.

The mothers present agreed that much had been done to raise the standard of the "movies," but a step further could be taken with great profit to the children, namely—the setting apart of one day in the week when pictures of a pleasing and educative value to children would be shown. All death scenes and shooting affairs, which shock the child so severely, should be eliminated.

The next regular meeting of the Civic League will be held on the first Monday in November. All old members are urged to be present and to bring with them as many new members as possible. The league has started a good work for the betterment of Janesville and it is only by the hearty co-operation of all that the greatest success can be obtained. This is addressed to all the women of Janesville who are interested in the uplift of humanity. Come to the meeting of the league. Lead and encourage by your presence, and helpful suggestions and financial aid by paying the yearly dues of fifty cents.

HIGHS HUMBLIED BY BELOIT IROQUOIS; SCORE IS 29 TO 6

Janesville Eleven Fail to Show Class in First Game of Season Saturday—Dearborn Scored Touchdown.

In a game that was slow and ragged, the Janesville high school football team lost their first game of the season on Saturday afternoon at the Driving Park association grounds, to the Beloit Junior Iroquois aggregation by the score of 29 to 6. But for a mistake made by Machia, in which Beloit benefited seven points, the score would have been 22 to 6, according to the playing rules. In the first period, with the ball on Janesville's five yard line, Beloit executed an incomplete pass in the end zone, one of the Line City ends crossing the goal line. Machia declared a touchdown was made, despite the arguments presented by Coach Curtis, explaining the rule that such a play should result in a touchback. This Beloit bunch were given seven points unintentionally, and also against the rules.

The pep in Saturday's struggle was lacking. In the first quarter Janesville was apparently lost, and before they could attempt to bowl, Beloit had registered nineteen points, while the locals failed to count. The Line City quarterback was Beloit's star, and scored all of the nineteen points in the first quarter.

The second quarter opened with Janesville in possession of the ball in the middle of the field. Beloit failed to pass several times. Run was being made, but would not be taken out. Mooney was replaced by Viny, after the former had played the best game for Janesville thus far. Viny made good at the start by holding the line in front and like a veteran. The second quarter was seen-saw in the middle of the field, neither side having the advantage. Beloit lost their downs five times in the period, and at the end of the first half, Beloit, 19; Janesville, 0.

Janesville continued in the third quarter to play better football. Stewart was playing well at quarter, in the fourth quarter, when the Beloit were being pushed back, and the game appeared more even, with the locals perhaps having a slight edge. Janesville backs carried the ball with striking distance of Beloit's coal line, but lacked the necessary effort to count. Dudley and Roberts replaced McCulloch and Schenk at guard. Toward the end of the second half series of rushes, in which Curtis' men made their downs several times, a pass to Viny brought the ball within a few feet of the goal line. The feat was duplicated, this time Dearborn getting the ball across the coal line and scoring. He failed to kick the goal. Score, Beloit, 19; Janesville, 6.

Beloit's little quarterback was the star in the last quarter, during which he kicked a placekick and scored another touchdown. The game ended with Janesville humbly defeated by the score of 29 to 6. The line-up was as follows:

Janesville—Rivers, lt; More lt; McCulloch and Dudley, 1c; Stewson, c; Schenk and Roberts, rc; Jones, e; Mooney and Viny, re; Captain Stewart, q; Cronin, lt; Dearborn, t; Pate, rb.

Beloit Iroquois—Connell, 1c; North, lb; Cobb, lc; Myers and Wooten, c; Ford and Joel, re; Hogan, rt; Cronin, lb; Keith, c; P. Gatz, rb; Barrett and Connell, rc; Woyack and McGinley, lb.

CUBS DEFEAT SOX IN EXCITING STRUGGLE

Cleotie Blows Up, Players Have Row, and Schulte Breaks Bat in Ten Inning Game Sunday.

Cubs 4; White Sox 3. Ten innings. Twenty-five thousand fans paid admission yesterday at the West Side Park Chicago, to watch one of the greatest games for excitement, ever played in the Windy City or elsewhere. Besides the game itself, there were several rows with Umpire Quigley, in which Bresnahan, Zimmerman, Schulte, Vaughn, and a number of others took part at various times. Schulte, after having been struck out by Eddie Cleotie, turned around to the ump and used language that caused Quigley to order him to leave the clubhouse. In this decision, Schulte deliberately grabbed his bat, and with a healthy swing, broke it in the home place, amid cheers from the crowd. The game did not proceed until the Cub fielder had retired to the clubhouse.

Cleotie, on the mound for the Sox, batted a wonderful ball, allowing the Cubs but two scratch hits, that might have been errors up to the ninth inning, when he blew up, and allowed Zimmerman, first man up, to clout a home run into the center field bleachers. Williams, playing for the Sox, whaled a single into left field that brought Heinie home. The extra inning was a revelation of the class with the Sox and Cub crowds sided as to opinion, as shown by the polls. Lavender replaced Vaughn in the ninth and was hit freely. The series now stands one game for the Sox and three for the Cubs. If the Cubs win today the city series will end.

CARDS LOSE COMBAT WITH ALBANY 2 TO 1

Stellar Pitching by Tillie, "The Great Unknown," Defeats Cardinals in Brilliant Game.

The mystery was unsolved at Albany, Sunday, when the "Great Unknown" proved to be Nate Tillie, but the Janesville Cardinals were unable to defeat the Albany nine, two to one. The contest was staged on the ball park diamonds and a huge crowd witnessed a stellar exhibition of the national pastime.

Too much "fizz" put the Cardinals behind, for the Albany wonder gained complete revenge for the trouncing the Cards gave him in an early game. Six hits were all the Cards could gather off Tillie, which came at irregular intervals. Tillie whiffed fourteen batters with his graceful curves and brilliant speed. Crandall, on the mound for the Cardinals, was not far behind the Albany wonder, for a wild heave in the first inning put one of the tallies across that ultimately meant the game. Crandall fanned eleven, but in the eighth two hits were combed off him with a passed man waiting to be scored.

In the first inning H. Broughton, first up for Albany, was hit by a pitched ball. The next batters fanned and the outlook was bright. Crook batted an easy one to the infield, but a wild heave over Porter put the run across on which should have been an easy out.

The Cardinals did not have a look-in in the first for Tillie moved down the first three batters on strikes. From then on it was a slab duel with Crandall having the better of the argument until the fifth inning, when he kept pumping the strikes across with deadly effect. In the sixth, Highlands, playing short, and Ryan both singled, but Owens went out on a fly to third with two down.

H. Broughton again proved the thorn in the side of Crandall in the eighth when he drew a walk. The next batter struck out. Stewart came through with a single putting Broughton on third. Crook inserted the needed bingle and another game was doomed to rest in the lost column.

The one satisfaction of the game was that the Cardinals displayed a little gumption and hitting spirit that will be sorely needed next Sunday when the Beloit North Ends invade the city. Crandall pitched in rare form which, if he repeats, Sunday should prove a puzzle in the final outcome.

Summary.
Cardinals—Berger, lt; Sullivan, rf; Hall, c; Ryan, 3b; Highlands, ss; Porter, lb; Owens, 2b; Powers, cf; Crandall, p. G. Berger, utility.

Wisconsin Downs Marquette.—Loss of Brickley Weakened Harvard. Yale Shows Form.

Saturday's results on the gridiron show that the big teams are rapidly rounding into form. Although Harvard defeated Lehigh 20 to 0, Yale, crippled by the loss of Brickley, or rather Brickley's toe, just managed to gain a scratch victory from Washington and Jefferson by a score of ten to nine.

Brickley may be out of the game for the rest of the season, as he has just undergone an operation for appendicitis. This will prove a serious blow to the Crimson, as their team has been built around his playing. Harvard was also crippled Saturday by the absence of Mahan from the line-up. Mahan is a star half and much depended upon to make gains. It was hard sledding for the Cambridge boys to win at that and they only scored their final touchdown after a sensation forty-yard run when their opponents had the game all but won.

Yale, the eastern dark horse, showed a steady improvement when the Blue defeated Lehigh 20 to 0. Yale led the open style football to a good advantage in this game and it appears as if the forward pass will be the ticket with which the Yale coaches hope to defeat Harvard.

One of the big events of the year is scheduled the coming Saturday when Yale meets the Notre Dame eleven at

New Haven. With the Harvard-Michigan game, this encounter is the only contest in which the eastern and western football can be compared. The Catholics showed the power of their scoring machine Saturday, land-slaying Rose Poly 102 to 0, the biggest score of the day.

The big surprise in the east was the defeat of the Carlisle Indians of Cornell, 21 to 0. Cornell lost their first game but turned around and whaled the Redskins in a revengeful manner.

Chicago had an easy time defeating Northwestern and the Maroons are the best bet for the conference champions. Illinois, by defeating Indiana 51 to 0, demonstrated that she will have to be reckoned with in the settling of the western title. Wisconsin defeated the weak Marquette eleven 48 to 0, but the Badgers have not met with a test as yet that forced them to show their real strength. Furdie downed the Western Reserves 26 to 0, as in general the weaker teams were whitewashed by the varieties in the second games of the schedules.

Lawrence showed class and strength, downing the scrappy Lake Forest eleven 18 to 7. Beloit was downed by Carlton at Carlton, losing 28 to 0. Edler played quarter and the one-sided defeat was partially due to the loss of Dickoff.

The Rivals.
It was at Nice, Two English girls are standing at the foot of a hotel staircase roaring with laughter. "For pity's sake, Mabel, don't!" said one of the matrons who were with them. "They'll take you for one of those horrid American girls." An American girl happened to be standing at the head of the stairs and quietly observed: "I guess not, with those awfully big feet!"

Folk-Lore.
The term folk-lore was first suggested by Mr. W. J. Thomas in 1846 to designate what was then for the first time becoming a subject of wide popular interest, considered as a department of the study of antiquities or archaeology, and embracing everything that related to ancient observances and customs, to the notions, beliefs, traditions, superstitions and prejudices of the common people.

HOW TO LEND A HAND.

The serious condition existing in the cotton growing states, as the result of the European war, has led to all sorts of suggestions for relief. One of them was for everyone who could to buy a bale of cotton at ten cents per pound,
and store it until the market recovered. This might afford temporary relief, but the great majority of people were not interested, and but few of them could spare the $50.00 for the investment.

The latest suggestion, and by far the best, is contained in a letter to the press, from H. W. Ankerman of Indianapolis, Ind., which says in substance that every family in America
uses cotton cloth, and that the most practical way to relieve the cotton
situation is to place immediate orders
with the retail merchant for a bolt of cotton. This would result in heavy orders through the jobbers on the mills
and in a short time every American spindle would be active. New mills
would be constructed, labor would find employment and the reflex influence
would be felt all over the country.
The writer says, in this connection:

"When you buy a bale of cotton and warehouse it for a year or more you have done an act of pure philanthropy
and relieved a temporary want, but when you buy a bolt of cotton cloth or
a cotton garment you have done all of that and more. You have contributed to the nation's industrial prosperity,
have helped to build permanent business; you have applied the oil that makes the wheels of industry turn
easy in ten thousand mills and shops
all over this broad land of ours; you have put new life in your home merchant, encouraged the jobber, made
work for the railroad, given the dray-
man a job, sold advertising space for the newspapers, put the machine shops
in a position to turn out new equipment and have not only helped the southern planter, but put wages in the pocket of the mill hand with which to buy the product of your factory or the produce from your farm.

"All that is needed to start the wheels turning is orders. Not hundreds of big orders, but millions of little ones. Your orders, my orders.
Let's help the south by helping ourselves. Don't talk charity, talk business and talk now. For instance, why should we buy imported goods this year for Christmas? Why not buy cotton goods for Christmas? If there is a new German doll for baby, make a new wardrobe for the old doll and make it out of cotton goods. Make it a matter of patriotism. Some of you wear silk hosiery, knit in Europe,
from silk spun in Asia. Why not buy wife or husband a box of silk hosiery for Christmas, knit in an American mill, from yarn spun on Yankee spindles, from cotton grown in Dixie. She ought to be proud to wear them. He ought to thank God that he is permitted to wear cotton
in peaceful America rather than silk
in war-stricken Europe.

That's a simple proposition, but it has everything to recommend it, and if generally adopted would result in almost instant relief.

Small orders for 5,000,000 bolts of cotton cloth, placed within the next
thirty days, would restore the cotton market to normal conditions, and the families investing would simply be anticipating their wants for a necessity.
There is no speculation about it, and it suggests the best stroke of business
policy, just now, that could possibly be pursued.

The slogan should be changed from
"Buy a bale of cotton" to "Buy a bolt of cotton cloth." For the every family will "go to it" with relief speedily follow. The time is fast approaching when American-made goods
will be used more extensively in America. The markets of the old world are so badly demoralized that they can not soon recover. Start the ball rolling by placing an order today
for a bolt of cotton cloth.

GOOD ROADS.

The automobile is coming into general use so rapidly that the question of road building is of greater importance than ever before and the farmers, as well as the towns and city

drivers, are well aware of the fact.
The day has gone by when plowing up
the roadway and sweeping the dirt up in the middle constitutes a road, or when a windrow of gravel, dumped
through the center of the highway, and left to be smoothed out by enforced
travel, meets the requirement.

Too many roads have been built in this way, and stand today, as monuments of folly. The side roads, which are usually good during the dry season,
are impassable after a rain, and the old roadway in the center, with its hummocks of gravel, are a menace to every automobile driver.

The time has come when scientific road building is in demand, not only
on the best traveled thoroughfares,
but on every cross road in the country for many farmers have become auto drivers, and many more will join
the ranks during the next two years.

The road in front of a man's farm
is of more importance to him than any other, and he might better fill up the holes and keep it in repair until such time when it can be graded and properly drained, than to have it plowed up and made dangerous and next to impassable.

The time will come when every well-built country road will be oiled to bind the top dressing and make it
water-proof, and when it will be kept in repair by filling up the holes with crushed gravel. The auto is a hard vehicle on any road, but it has come to stay, and the sooner this fact is recognized, the better for all concerned. The rapid speed, the suction
from the tires, and the constant grinding on the ordinary road with a few days' travel.

These conditions apply to the country at large. They are with us and should be intelligently met in the interests of safety and economy.

It is now questioned whether Bryan
will come to Wisconsin to help Karel
and the democratic ticket this fall.
With the Blaine campaign being conducted from the office of the Attyr-ney General in Madison, Bryan
would find it hard work to talk again the candidate of his friends even though supporting a democratic candidate.

Voters want to remember that in electing men for the assembly they should be certain where they stand on the question of taxation. Whitte-r and Vinograd are pronounced on this question and sworn to before me
this first day of October, 1914.

the liver is almost instantaneous.
They are the result of Dr. Edwards' re-determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the stomach like strong liquids or calomel.
They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth?
Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.
It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "joggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

And save the fare back home."

The Exception.
What goes up must come down.
That's a saying of renown.
As scientists all view it,
There's no exception to this rule.
As taught in nearly every school,
For hard coal doesn't do it.

Advice to the Lovelorn Maidens.
It is better to have loved a fat man
than never to have loved at all.
Don't grab him off just because he wears a violet vest. It isn't an infallible sign of aristocracy.
A man whose ears stick out from
his head like the wings of a plane
is apt to be generous to a fault, perhaps more generous to a fault than
to anything else.

If you are counting on getting any plenty money, marry a man who carries
his change loose in his trousers pocket. He may never have very much, but what he has you are welcome to. Beware the string wallets.

NAME SUB-STATION

FOR PARCEL POST

Postmaster Cunningham Established
New Receiving Depot on East Side of River.

Beginning this morning, the postal
sub-station at the People's drug store,
corner Main and Milwaukee streets,
has been designated for receipt of parcel post packages. The order was issued by Postmaster Cunningham for the benefit of the general public resident on the east side of the river.

Parcel collection from the new station will be made at 5 o'clock each afternoon. Packages for parcel post mail received after this hour will not receive attention until the following morning.
Postmaster Cunningham requests
it to be known that this new station is not for the use of large mercantile and manufacturing business with their heavy mail. He requests that these firms and others send their packages, as formerly, direct to the main federal building.

He points out that it will receive more prompt attention and will not cause a congestion of mail while the experiment is being held at the substation.

Possibilities are that a second station will be established in Monterey.
Several requests have come from this section of Janesville. Although the matter has not been taken under consideration as yet, nevertheless Postmaster Cunningham intends to conduct an investigation into the advisability of establishing an office at that place.

Mr. Cunningham advises the insuring of all parcel post mail. Charges are five cents for packages with a valuation of $25 or under and 10 cents
for mail with a value of $50 and under.
The business at the local office for the quarter ending Sept. 30 was $700
in excess of the same period a year ago and $1,400 more than in 1912 and was also several hundred dollars in excess of any previous year in the Janesville office's history.
A great amount of first class mail

for local delivery is deposited in the local postoffice each week, according to a statement which Postmaster Cunningham has forwarded to Washington.
Mr. Cunningham was requested to keep tab on the number of first class
letters which were dropped in the postoffice from midnight of September 30 to midnight of October 7. The number of letters deposited during that time was 7,670 and the amount of postage paid on them aggregated $12.25.

The largest number of first class
letters deposited for delivery was on October 1, when 2,699 were entered.

GET 100% HEAT FROM YOUR COAL

Enough actual heat is contained in the coal you burn to warm every room in the house.

The Favorite Base Burner extracts all the heat from every bit of coal you put into it, and pours it through your home in great waves of clean, sanitary, genial warmth. None is wasted up the stove pipe. No other heating stove can possibly do this, for the Favorite is constructed
by the foremost heating experts in the world,
and every feature that makes it so superior is patented.

That is why the Favorite cuts your coal
bill to the limit, and eliminates the ash dust,
coal gases, smoke and soot that ruin home furnishings with a common stove.

With the Favorite, every unit of heat in the fuel is thrown into the room, and you can have your home as hot as you want it on the coldest days of winter.

The house is made to feel like home to your wife all day long. You may be at work, but you will know that your family is comfortable.
When you get back at night, you will find the entire home opened up and warmth everywhere.

And it actually costs half as much as any other heating apparatus you can buy.

Why suffer the ills and pay the bills of an inefficient, ordinary heating stove? Decide now to enjoy Favorite comfort in your home during the cold days.

FORGER SENTENCED TO WAUPUN PRISON FOR THREE YEARS

John Mullin Passes Ten Dollar
Forged Check on Paul Bahr Saturday, Causing Arrest and Conviction.

John Mullin, aged thirty-four, this morning was sentenced to serve three years at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Waupun for passing a forged check, amounting to ten dollars, on Paul Bahr at the Union Hotel
barroom on Saturday evening.
Mullin, when arraigned before Judge
H. L. Maxfield in the municipal court, pleaded guilty and asked for immediate sentence. The penalty for this felony is from one to seven years.
Mullin made out and endorsed the check as John Moran, a farmer residing near Jansville. The instrument was drawn on the Bank City Bank. Mullin had attempted to pass the bad check on Sam Brown in the afternoon, but had been refused.
Mullin was then taken to the station,
stating he would have no trouble in getting it cashed at the Union House.
He was followed and it was learned
by the police that the check was spurious and he was arrested by Patrolman Harry Smith.

While in custody on the way to the station, Mullin dropped two checks
made out in the name of Mullin on the Rock County Bank, under McDer-
mott's signature. He was seen to dispose of the checks by pedestrians
who picked them up and gave them
to Chief Champion at the station.
Mullin stoutly denied his guilt
until confronted with the two checks
which he thought he had gotten rid of.

The forger had been sentenced to serve ten days for drunkenness from the Edgerton court and served his term at the employment of the Rock County Bank, under McDer-
mott's signature. He was seen to dis-
pose of the checks by pedestrians
who picked them up and gave them
to Chief Champion at the station.
Mullin stoutly denied his guilt
until confronted with the two checks
which he thought he had gotten rid of.

Mullin gave his home as being in Indianapolis, Ind., but stated that he had resided in other states during late years. On being questioned by Judge Maxfield, Mullin denied being guilty
of any offense of this nature and said that his Wisconsin experience in courts were his first arrests. The checks were very skillfully made and the signatures were noticeably different and the name McDermott written perfectly on all three papers.

Because it was apparent that Mullin
was an expert at forging, the heavy sentence of three years was imposed.

Mullin took his fate in a reserved
manner, not flinching when the
years of prison servitude stared him in the face. He pleaded that he was drunk and only while under the influence of liquor that he committed the crime.

He will be taken to Waupun by Sheriff Whipple Tuesday or Wednesday.

Police reports show that much of this forging is being attempted at the present time and merchants
should exercise unusual care in cash-ing checks.

TREASURER'S REPORT

FILED BY COUNCIL

City Finances are in Excellent Condition.—Total Cash on Hand $106,472.45.

The report of City Treasurer Muen-
chow, accepted and filed by the city
commissioners at the last meeting,
shows the excellent condition of the city finances which should sufficiently warrant the city's obligation without trouble until the tax collections in January. The total cash on hand at the end of September showed a balance of $106,472.45, considerably
more than was at the city's command
last year at the corresponding time.

With the exception of the funds in the fourth and fifth wards, there is enough money to complete the improved form in several cases all improvement work that has been ordered by the council or is under consideration.
The following amounts were listed in the various fund accounts: General fund, $16,334.42; fire and water,
$3,120.59; lighting, $5,387.86; library,
$1,562.66; bridge, $7,240.24; first ward,
$6,127.38; second ward, $4,423.74;
third ward, $2,304.04; fourth ward, $663.02; fifth ward, $694.99.

ORGANIZE VOLUNTARY GYMNASIUM CLASSES

High School Girls Will Meet After School Hours During Week for Recreation.

Sixty high school girls from the sophomore, junior and senior classes
have volunteered to take gym work
under the direction of Miss Abell,
physical training instructor, after school hours each week for the winter months.

This large number, many of whom were members of last year's after school classes are enthusiastic over the plan of taking these meetings
after school hours for the reason that they afford recreation to the girls after a day of study. Because of this large number, there will be two divisions, one to meet on Monday and Wednesday afternoons at four o'clock
and the other to meet on Tuesday
and Thursday at the same hour.
Girls' basketball, other games, and exercises will be indulged in. In fact,
all sorts of entertainment for the girls will be taken up.

Freshmen girls, who are required
to take gym work, and who receive credit for the same, are not allowed to join the after school classes. No credit will be given the girls joining the voluntary meetings.

SCARLET FEVER MARKER ONLY DISEASE WARNING IN CITY AT PRESENT

Today the last of the contagious disease signs for diphtheria were removed and the fellows home on West Bluff street fumigated by Health Officer S. B. Buckmaster. At present the only cause of contagious disease is one of scarlet fever on South Cherry street. Results of immediate action to eliminate any further spread of the plague is highly gratifying to Dr.
Buckmaster, physicians, and the general public at large.

Expect Material: Three more cars
of material for the repairing of Monterey bridge was reported to have been shipped Saturday from Madison, Ill., and will arrive in Jansville the latter part of the week. Two cars have been received and "spotted" on the siding on the west side of the bridge. Because the three cars, being shipped contain the foundation material, the city is unable to start the work until they arrive.

BROKEN HIP RESULTS IN PIONEER'S DEATH

Mrs. Agnes Bell Expired Sunday Afternoon at Age of 81—Obsequies
Will Be Private.

The demise of another Jansville pioneer, Mrs. Agnes Bell, a resident of this city since 1852, occurred Sunday
afternoon at the home of her daughter,
Mrs. Janet E. Day, 203 South
Third street, at five-thirty o'clock. A broken hip, which the deceased sustained several weeks ago, while walking from one room to another, was the immediate cause of her death, for
since that time she has suffered much,
only the last few days being able to be wheeled about in a chair. Death came at the age of eighty-one, taking away one of the most respected and beloved citizens of the community.

Mrs. Bell was born in Greenock, Scotland, in the year 1833. She came to America at the age of twelve years,
residing in New York until her marriage to Francis Bell in October, 1855.
Following her wedding she and her husband resided in various places, making Jansville their home, where she has since resided. Francis Bell, her husband, passed away five years ago,
leaving her with a broken heart and
she has since resided with her daughter.
The past twenty years, even though a semi-invalid for many years, her life
was an inspiration to all who knew her. She was a loyal mother, a sincere friend, and a true neighbor, and that promise held to another. The fall, which is believed to have been caused by the hip breaking first,
proved fatal to her in the end.

The deceased leaves besides her only daughter, Mrs. J. B. Day, two nieces, Mesdames W. C. Phillips and
J. P. Baker, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Day, 203 South Third street, Tuesday
afternoon at two o'clock.

Rev. T. D. Williams of the Carroll M.
Baptist church officiating. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

OPENING SESSION OF DRAMA CLUB TONIGHT

All Old Members of Organization Expected to Attend Meeting at City Hall to Elect Officers.

The opening of the second season
of the Jansville Dramatic club will be held this evening at the city hall.
Every member of the organization
last year is expected to be present
tonight, when officers to succeed
those of last season will be elected.
Plans for the work to be taken up and other important business will be discussed.

The club benefited greatly through their plays given last June from two standpoints. It made friends with the public of the city, and secured
for the club a good working basis for the coming year. Arrangements are on foot for the holding of a social event to interest every member to remain in the organization, and to do his best to make the club a success.

For this affair will undoubtedly be decided tonight. New members will be taken in within a few weeks, and a waiting list established. This form was favored last season, but owing to the small attendance, a decision was not arrived at.

SEEKS REVENGE IN COURT FOR ASSAULT

Testimony to be Taken Before Sentence is Passed—Gilbert Given Nine Months for Drunkennes.

Matt Wolskie was arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield in the municipal court this morning on the charges of assault on William Olson, and rat-
tary, alleged in the complaint to have been committed in Lima Center,
town of Porter, on October seventh.

Wolskie pleaded guilty to assaulting Zillner, and the court heard the testimony to be taken before sentence was pronounced, claiming that the complaint was the aggressor in an encounter which Wolskie was using his fists to advantage on Zillner's face. It was claimed by the defendant that the quarrel was the outcome of a feud of two years standing from a previous "roughhouse" dance hall fight. Judge Maxfield instructed both parties to the action to appear in court Thursday morning with two witnesses.

Gilbert Olson was the only drunk to be brought to court this morning,
only two men being arrested on Saturday night for intoxication. No one was brought to court on charges of guilt and waived his examination as he has been sentenced before in the county jail.

John Maxfield looked up the man's record and found that in three years
time he had served ten sentences besides numerous other times that he had been arrested and freed.

Nine months term under the commitment law was assessed and Olson
was given the "Illustrated lecture"
on Waupun as a warning.

Edward Olson, a fifteen year old youth of Edgerton was brought before Judge Maxfield on the complaint
of his grandparents for being incorrigible. His case was adjourned until next Monday.

The natives of this city will
will consider sending the boy to the Waukega reformatory.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

DEMANDING A STIMULUS.

THE religion of people who try to be good because if they are they expect to be rewarded by pleasures in Heaven for those they miss in this life, has always seemed a rather doubtful quantity to me. And somewhat similar to it is the good conduct of those who expect to be paid in praise and gratitude for being generous or even for doing what is just and right.

An acquaintance of mine graduated from a school of music last year. She was a brilliant pupil and one of the professors offered to use his influence in securing a certain desirable opening for her.

Much to everyone's surprise, she courteously but firmly refused his help. After some difficulty she found an opportunity for herself, but it is not so good as the opening the professor offered her.

Her explanation of her conduct is simple, and to my mind at least, a complete justification. "Yes, I know, Professor would have done well for me, and it was kind of him to offer, but I couldn't afford to take his help. You see, I happen to know what it means. In the first place, it means that he expects you to be eternally and enthusiastically grateful. In the second place, he expects you to take his advice for the rest of your life and he is furious if you venture to have your own ideas about your career. And in the third place, he expects you to be ready to do anything and everything he wants from coming back at most inconvenient times to help him with his classes, to using your influence to place anyone he happens to fancy."

I think we all know people like that and after a lesson or two we all learn to avoid their favors.

You keep trying to do the just so long as you keep them constantly stimulated with praise are another species of this genius. I once had a helper who had been doing poor work and after a serious talk promised to do better. She did brace up and improved greatly and I praised her at every opportunity. But she was so important in which I was interested and I finally had to speak of her. Hereupon she promptly became cross and sulky and said it was no use trying to please me. Just because I had temporarily removed the stimulus of praise.

We all need a little praise and gratitude now and then to keep us going. But to crave that stimulus all the time and to be useless without it is just as much a weakness as depending upon any kind of stimulus.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fifteen years old and I chum with a girl sixteen years old.

(1) Do you think it proper for us two girls to go hunting and riding with boys?

(2) What does a boy mean when he smiles at a girl or winks? Is it a sign he likes her?

(3) If a girl meets a young man on the street should she speak first?

(4) What does the word flirt mean?

(5) Is it proper for a boy to kiss a girl good night?

(6) If the four of you go out together in the afternoon or early evening and the boys would be nothing improper about it?

(7) Usually it means nothing but that he is jolly and full of fun. It may mean that he is a little too

"fresh."

(8) Girls speak first when meeting gentlemen acquaintances.

(9) The word flirt is applied to a girl who makes every effort to attract a boy's attention, even strangers sometimes. She makes herself vulgarly conspicuous. I should have to have the word applied to one of my girls.

(10) A girl should reserve all her kisses for the man who is to be her husband. Believe me, dearie, girls who permit themselves to be kissed by any boy who cares to amuse himself in that way will not be respected—least of all by the boy who gets the kisses.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young wife, my husband does not approve of my going out evenings with my girl friends and he says he is too tired to go with me. Is there anything I can do?

Remember, my dear, that your husband has been working hard while you have been having an easy time. Do you not think it is the wife's privilege to make the evenings at home as pleasant as possible? You would not like to have him go away and leave you alone. Go out with your girl friends in the afternoon when he is at work and reserve your evenings for him. When he sees that you are considering his wishes perhaps he will take you out more often.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What do you think of a girl who smokes cigarettes?

I have been told that the secret practice of cigarette smoking among women is becoming quite common in some cities. I am sure it cannot help affecting a girl's standing in the community. No young man of merit would want to marry a girl who smoked and as it lowers his respect for her it lowers the respect of all thinking women as well. It could possibly offset this that would make her wish to indulge the evil habit?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me how to pickle dill pickles and how to make catchup.

(2) My husband is very jealous of me. When I go shopping he is so afraid that I will flirt with someone. If I should meet some of my former gentlemen friends and speak to them why I'd have the worst quarrel in the house. What shall I do?

ONE YEAR BRIDE.

(1) Ketchup—One gallon tomato sauce, strain through sieve; three tablespoons ground mustard, three tablespoons salt, two tablespoons black pepper, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, cloves and allspice to taste. Put the ground spices in thin bags. Add one cup ketchup red and clear. Add one pint vinegar when nearly done.

Dill Pickles—Soak pickles over night in strong salt water, scald in vinegar and salt water, place in crock. Lay dill over the top and pour over the whole boiling vinegar.

(2) In the first place be sure he has no cause to be jealous. A woman can be friendly yet carry herself so no one will think her a flirt. It is silly to object to your speaking to former friends if you do so in the right way. Try and have a good heart to heart talk with your husband. Let him see that you care so much for him that he should trust you. There is never any jealousy where there is perfect trust and no married couples who allow distrust and jealousy to enter their lives can ever be happy. Get rid of it at all costs.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

ECONOMY COOKIES. It costs more to keep the cookie jar full than it did a year ago, but now that the school days have arrived an empty cookie jar would be a calamity.

Here's a very good recipe for eggless cookies. It will make five dozen. Take one large cup of butter and lard mixed, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, one-half cup of cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger and one of cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon soda and flour for stiff dough. Four over the soda a little boiling water before using it. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, for if the dough is not properly mixed the cookies lose in flavor, and they will not be shiny and spicy when done.

THE TAELE. Shepherd's Pie—For shepherds' pie take two pounds of cold mutton and then add minced onion, peppers and salt to taste. Over this pour half a cupful of stock or tomato ketchup. Put in a baking dish and spread over it fresh mashed potatoes to the depth of about three inches. The potatoes should be well seasoned with pepper, salt and melted butter, and made creamy with beating and the addition of hot milk. Bake until the potatoes are brown.

Little Harry (munching fruit of the date tree)—Say, mama, if I eat dates enough will I grow up and be a calendar?

Grandma sez: "Mrs. Lem Fodder sez, 'THER ONLY WAY THER SHE KIN TAKE A NAP IN THE AFTERNOON WITHOUT BEIN' DISTURBED IS THER GIVE EACH CHILDREN AN ALL DAY SUCKER.'"

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—No, Indeed! No Half-Way Measures for Father—

BY F. LEIPZIGER

The Last Shot

By FREDERICK PALMER

"Exactly!" said Westerling, sensible of another of her gifts. She could get the essence of a thing in a few words. "When we have won and set another frontier, the power of our nation will be such in the world that the Browns can never afford to attack us," he went on. "Indeed, no two of the big nations of Europe can afford to make war without our consent. We shall be the arbiters of international dissensions. We shall command peace—yes, the peace of force, of fact! If it could be won in any other way I should not be here on this veranda in command of an army of invasion. That was my idea—for that I planned. He was making up for having over-shot himself in his confession that he had brought on the war as a final step for his ambition.

"You mean that you can gain peace by propaganda and education only when human nature has so changed that we can have law and order and peace are safe from burglary and pickpocketing from pickpockets without policemen? Is that it?" she asked.

"Yes, yes! You have it! You have found the wheat in the chaff." "Perhaps because I have been seeing something of human nature—the human nature of both the Browns and the Grays at war. I have seen the Browns throwing hand-grenades and the Grays in wanton disorder in our dining-room directly they were out of touch with their officers!" she said, as one who hates to accept disillusionment but must in the face of logic.

Westerling made no reply except to nod, for a movement on her part pre-occupied him. She leaned forward, as she had when she had told him he would become chief of staff, her hands clasped over her knees, her eyes burning with a question. It was the attitude of the prophecy. But with the prophecy she had been a little mystical; the fire in her eyes had precipitated an idea. Now it forged another question.

"And you think that you will win?" she asked. "You think that you will win?" she repeated with the slow emphasis which demands a careful answer.

The deliberateness of his reply was in keeping with her mood. He was detached; he was a referee.

"Yes, I know that we shall. Numbers make it so, though there be no choice of skill between the two sides."

His tone had the confidence of the flow of a mighty river in its destination on its way to the sea. There was nothing in it of prayer, of hope, of desperation, as there had been in Lanstron's "We shall win!" spoken to her in the arbor at their last interview. She drew forward slightly in her chair. Her eyes seemed much larger and nearer to him. They were sweeping him up and down as if she were seeing the slim figure of Lanstron in contrast to Westerling's sturdiness; as if she were measuring the might of the millions behind him and the three millions behind Lanstron. She let go half-whispered "Yes!" which seemed to reflect the conclusion gained from the power of his presence.

"Then my mother's and my own interests are with you—the interests of peace are with you!" she declared.

She did not appear to see the sudden, uncontrolled gleam of victory in his eyes. By this time it had become a habit for Westerling to wait silently for her to come out of her abstraction. To disturb one might make it unproductive.

"Then if I want to help the cause of peace I should help the Grays!"

The exclamation was more to herself than to him. He was silent. This was in a veranda chair desiring to aid him and his five million bayonets and four thousand guns! Quixote and the mad—she was amazed; it was true. The golden glow of the sunset was running in his veins in a passion of personal triumph. The profile turned over so little. Now it was looking at the point where Dellarine had lain dying. Westerling noted the smile playing on the lips. It had the quality of a smile over a task completed—Dellarine's smile. She started; she was trembling all over in the resistance of some impulse—some impulse that gradually gained headway and at last broke its bonds.

"For I can help—I can help!" she cried out, turning to him in wild indecision which seemed to plead for guidance. "It's so terrible—yet if it would hasten peace—I know much of the Browns' plan of defense! I know where they are strong in the first line and—oh, one place where they are weak there—a place where they are weak in the main line!"

"You do!" Westerling exploded. The plans of the enemy! The plans that neither Bouchard's saturnine cunning, nor bribes, nor spies could ascertain! It was like the bugle-call to the hunter. He controlled himself. "Yes, yes!" He was thoughtful and guarded.

"Do you think it is right to tell?"

"Right?" Yes, to hasten the inevitable—to save lives!" declared Westerling with deliberate assurance.

"I—I want to see an end of the killing! I—I want to see an end of the killing! I—I want to see an end of the killing!" she cried, her hands outstretched, her eyes wide, her mouth open, as if she were speaking in a dream.

"We intend a general attack on the first line of defense tonight!" he exclaimed, his supreme thought leaping into words.

"And you would want the information about the first line to-night if it is to be of service?"

"Yes, to-night!"

Marta brought her hands together in a tight clasp. Her gaze fluttered for a minute over the tea-table. When she looked up her eyes were calm.

"It is a big thing, isn't it?" she said.

"A thing not to be done in an impulse."

"I Want to See an End of the Killing."

I try never to do big things in an impulse. When I see that I am in danger of it I always say: 'Go by yourself and think for half an hour!' So I must now. In a little while I will let you know my decision."

Without further formality she started across the lawn to the terrace steps. Westerling watched her sharply, passing along the path of the second terrace, pacing slowly, head bent, until she was out of sight. Then he stood for a time getting a grip on his own emotions before he went into the house.

CHAPTER XV.

In Feller's Place.

What am I? What have I done? What am I about to do? shot as forked shadows over the hot lava-flow of Marta's impulsive. The vitality that Westerling had felt by suggestion from a still profile rejoiced in a quickening of pace directly she was out of sight of the veranda. All the thinking she had done that afternoon had been in pictures; some saying, some cry, some, groan, or some smile went with every picture.

The sitting-room of the tower was empty to other eyes but not to hers. The lantern was in the corner at hand. After her hasty steps had carried her along the tunnel to the telephone, she set down the lantern and pressed the spring that opened the panel door. Another moment and she would be entered on her great adventure in the finality of action. That little ear-peace became a specter of conscience. She drew back convulsively and her hands flew to her face; she was a rocking shadow in the thin, reddish light of the lantern.

Conscious mind had torn off the mask from subconscious mind, revealing the true nature of the change that war had wrought in her. She who had resented Feller's part—that a part who had been playing! Every word, every shade of expression, every telling pause of abstraction after Westerling confessed that he had made war for his own ends had been subtly prompted by a purpose whose actuality terrified her.

Her hypocrisy, she realized, was as black as the wall of darkness beyond the lantern's gleam. Then this demoralization passed, as a nightmare passes, with Westerling's boast again in her ears.

When war's principles, enacted by men, were based on sinister trickery called strategy and tactics, should not women, using such weapons as they had, also fight for their homes? Marta's hands swept down from her eyes; she was on fire with resolution.

Forty miles away a bell in Lanstron's bedroom and at his desk rang simultaneously. At the time he and Partow were seated facing each other across a map on the table of the room where they worked together. No persuasion of the young vice-chief, no edict of the doctors, could make the old chief take exercise or shorten his hours.

"I know. I know myself!" he said. "I know my duty. And you are learning, my boy, learning!"

Every day the flabby cheeks grew pastier and the pouches under the eyebrows heavier. But there was no dimming of the eagle flashes of the eyes, no weakening of the will. Last night Lanstron had turned as white as chalk when Partow staggered on rising from the table, the veins on his temples knotted blue whip-cords. Yet after a few hours' sleep he reappeared with firm step, fresh for the fray.

The paraphernalia around these two was the same as that around Westerling. Only the atmosphere of the staff was different. Each man was performing the part set for him. No man knew much of any other man's part. Partow alone knew all, and Lanstron was trying to grasp all and praying that Partow's old body should still feed his mind with energy. Lanstron was thinner and paler, a new and glittering intensity in his eyes.

When word of Feller's defection came, Lanstron realized for the first time by Partow's manner that the old chief of staff, with all his deprecation of the telephone scheme as chimerical, had grounded a hope on it.

"There was the chance that we might know—so vital to the defense—what they were going to do before and not after the attack," he said.

Yet the story of how Feller yielded to the temptation of the automatic had made the nostrils of the old war-horse quiver with a dramatic breath, and instead of the command of a battery of guns, which Lanstron had promised, the chief made it a battalion. He had drawn down his brows when he heard that Marta had asked that the wire be left intact; he had shot a shrewd, questioning glance at Lanstron and then beat a tattoo on the table and half grinned as he grumbled under his breath:

"She is afraid of being lonesome! No harm done!"

A week had passed since the Grays had taken the Galland house, and still no word from Marta. The ring of the bell brought Lanstron to his feet with a startled, boyish bound.

"Very springy, that tendon of Achilles!" muttered Partow. "And, my boy, take care, take care!" he called suddenly in his sonorous voice, as vast and billowy as his body.

It was Marta's voice and yet not Marta's, this voice that beat in nervous waves over the wire.

"Lanny—Yes, I, Lanny! You were right. Westerling planned to make war deliberately to satisfy his ambition. He told me so. The first general attack on the first line of defense is tonight. Westerling says so!" She had to pause for breath. "And, Lanny, I want to know some position of the Browns which is weak—not actually weak, maybe, but some position where the Grays expect terrible resistance and will not find it—where you will let them in!"

"In the name of—Marta! Marta, what—"

"I am going to fight for the Browns—for my home!"

In the sheer satisfaction of explaining herself to herself, of voicing her sentiments, she sent the pictures which had wrought the change moving across the screen before Lanstron's amazed vision. There was no room for interruption on his part, no question of need of one. The wire seemed to quiver with the militant tension of her spirit. It was Marta's voice who was talking at the other end; not alone for him, but with a purpose that revealed all the latent strength of her personality and daring.

"I shall have to ask Partow. It's a pretty big thing."

"Yes—only that is not all my plan, my little plan. After they have taken the first line of defense—and they will get it, won't they?"

"Yes, we shall yield in the end, yield rather than suffer too great losses there that will weaken the defense on the main line."

"Then I want to know where it is that you want Westerling to attack on the main line, so that we can get him to attack there. That—that will help, won't it?"

"Yes."

"Of course, all the while I shall be getting news from him—when I have proved my loyalty and have his complete confidence—and I'll telephone it to you. I am sure I can get something worth while with you to direct me; don't you think so, Lanny? I'll hold my arm to grip the poor lady, who was just about to sink. But her frantic struggles just at this moment dislodged her bathing cap, which soon floated away, carrying with it, which was more precious, her wig.

"Oh, save my hair!" she cried. "Save my hair!" replied the gallant rescuer, hauling her in. "I am only a life-saver, not a hair-restorer."

A really good Whistler story is that told by Joseph Pennell, the distinguished artist.

Whistler, when an art student, used to copy celebrated paintings in the Louvre. I found him there one day hard at work on a copy of the famous "Mona Lisa."

"You've done a fine thing there," I remarked, for the copy was a good one.

"Yes," Whistler agreed, "I am pleased with it," and then, in his whimsical way, he added, "I wonder what they'll do with the poor old original now?"

One evening a man was performing the old trick of producing eggs from a pocket-handkerchief, when he remarked to a little boy in the front row:

"Say, my boy, your mother can't get eggs without hens, can she?"

"Of course she can," replied the boy.

"Why, how is that?" asked the conjurer.

"She keeps ducks."

His Chance.

He—"Girls are queer creatures; they marry the first fool who asks them, as a rule. I suppose you'd do the same, wouldn't you?" She—"Suppose you ask me and find out."

"I'm Going to Fight for the Browns—For My Home!"

the wire, Lanny. Ask Partow!" she concluded. Of the two she was the staidier.

"Well!" said Partow, looking up at the sound of Lanstron's step. Then he half raised himself from his chair at sight of a Lanstron with eyes in a daze of brilliancy; a Lanstron with his maimed hand twitching in an outstretched gesture; a Lanstron in the dilemma of being at the same time lover and chief of intelligence. Should he let her make the sacrifice of everything that he held to be sacred to a woman's delicacy? Should he not return to the telephone and tell her that he would not permit her to play such a part? Partow's voice cut in on his demoralization with the sharpness of a blade.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

PURCHASES STOVE AT DOUBLE PRICE

Mrs. A. Bartel, Who Resides Near Leyden, Closes Agreement Which She Could Not Read.

Mrs. A. Bartel, wife of A. Bartel, a German farmer residing half a mile south of the town of Leyden, and being unable to read English, signed an agreement with a representative of a prominent stove concern the other day in which she not knowingly agreed to pay double the price of what the stove is alleged to actually cost.

The price of the stove, it is alleged, was given by the salesman at $37.75 at which price Mrs. Bartel agreed to take it, which called for two payments the first to be made at the end of six months, and the second at the end of the first year, each payment to amount to the alleged original cost of the stove.

Mrs. Bartel's children, upon returning from school, read the articles of the agreement, and informed their mother of the trickery played on her by the representative. The matter has been placed in a lawyer's hands for settlement. There may be others who have been attracted by the proposition of the salesman, and who should take warning.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Oct. 12.—The funeral services of the late Joseph Dana were held on Wednesday afternoon from the home he built here fifty-seven years ago. They were conducted by the Rev. Samuel Lutz, assisted by Rev. C. I. Andrews and E. C. Case. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery. Mr. Dana's sister, Mrs. Ella Billing of Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, who came to the services though over ninety years of age, is now the sole survivor of a family of fourteen children. Mr. Dana's birthplace was Stamford, Connecticut, being born May 31, 1825. When he was twenty-one years old he spent a year at Oberlin college, coming to Wisconsin two years later in the historic year of 1848. The lure of the golden west drew him on to California with the 49ers, and he suffered the perils and privations of the long journey with companions, most of whom have now reached another golden shore. He returned to the Atlantic coast in 1852, by way of the Isthmus of Panama. He sailed for Connecticut, where he remained for a short time before returning to Wisconsin, to take up his trade as a basket maker. At one time he owned a large tract of land on the east side of Whitewater, and in 1873 he began the manufacture of bricks, many of which are to be found in buildings here, including the Stewart block and the Congregational church. His marriage to Miss Mary A. Jarvis occurred here January 1, 1854, and they made their home in Whitewater until her death six years ago. Their two daughters, Mrs. Ada Stephens of Mansfield, South Dakota, and Mrs. Flora D. Goodearle of Whitewater, have cared for Mr. Dana during his illness of seven weeks. During most of his life he was connected with the Free Methodist church, but of late years he was connected with the Methodist Episcopal church.

Andrew Jensen went to Milwaukee, Saturday morning to attend the democratic state central committee meeting. From there he went to Sioux Falls, South Dakota to attend the Norwegian Lutheran church meeting, also a senate meeting. William Bussey will act in his place at the bank this week.

Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Green and daughter, Genevieve Holcomb and the Misses Mae and Alice Nichols were Janesville callers yesterday.

Directum I established a new world record for a third heat at Lexington, Ky. a few days ago by doing the mile in 1:59.4. Directum won the Tennessee pace from a small field in straight heats.

Griffiths once had Connolly of the Braves and returned him to the minors. Which, as we take it, is not isolating Griffith from other managers. If there's any manager in baseball who hasn't made similar mistakes he lacks one to the fraillies which beset mere humans.

The old Yale football system, according to Frank Hinkley, was not a system at all, but merely a sort of good-fellowship which tied together the coaches, the graduates and the undergraduates.

THAW'S FIGHT BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT NOW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, Oct. 12.—Renewal of his fight for liberty by Harry K. Thaw was one of the most dramatic and important cases facing the supreme court when it reconvened today for the 1914-15 sessions.

Thaw's appeal from the decision of the New Hampshire federal court refusing to set him at complete liberty upon a habeas corpus plea was on the docket of the court. Application to advance the case for early hearing this fall or winter from Thaw's counsel was expected soon. In the ordinary course of the court the case could not be reached for a year or more. Thaw is now technically in custody of the United States marshal for New Hampshire, following his flight from Mattewan asylum. One of the last acts of the supreme court before it adjourned last spring was refusing requests of Thaw to be released on bail pending hearing of his appeal and a permit to go to Pittsburgh to testify in litigation affecting the estate of his father, the late William Thaw.

Former Gov. William Stone of Pennsylvania is Thaw's chief attorney. It is believed here that William Travers Jerome, popularly called Thaw's "counsel," and the attorney general of New York will oppose any move looking to block in any way his long effort to make good for all time his escape from Mattewan.

Busy men, who want help, want to buy or sell anything, or want to lease or secure a lease, can fill their wants quickly by telling them by telephone to the Gazette Want Ad Dept. Want Ads. If you read them regularly you will profit by the bargain.

Today's Edgerton News

MISS DELLA HEBEL WED AT EDGERTON

Popular Tobacco City Girl United in Marriage to Paul Ames, Well Known Evansville Boy.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Oct. 12.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at five o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Clarke when Miss Della Hebel and Paul Ames of Evansville in marriage, in the presence of twenty-five immediate relatives, the ring ceremony being used. Ames, a son of Brooklyn played Lohengrin's wedding march and Miss Sadie, twin sister of the groom, from Fond du Lac, acted as bridesmaid. Immediately after the ceremony a two-course luncheon was served by Ruth Birkenmeyer, Dorothy Towne, Ethel Morrison and Eunice Nelson, former pupils of Miss Hebel when she taught in the city school. The bride has made her home with Mrs. Clarke when she attended high school, also when she taught here. For the past two years she has been teaching in Evansville. The young couple left Saturday evening for a week's visit in Omaha, Nebraska, and Kansas City and expect to leave the latter part of the month for their future home in Brandon, Canada.

Miss Laila Soverhill of Janesville is visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. B. Earle. Mrs. W. P. Guttery, who has been visiting relatives in Chicago for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday evening.

Rivals Win Victory. Professors Lamereaux and Gifford, Norman Clarke, Lawrence Whitford, Nelson Odeen, Kenneth Earle, George Luntz, Roland Levick, William McIntosh, Francis Thompson, Dewey Smith, Francis Curran, Wellington Frendahl, James Curran and Gale Odeen were among those who attended the Stoughton-Jefferson game at Stoughton, Saturday. Stoughton won by a score of 71 to 0.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Holt and family spent the week-end in Madison. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holton and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Westman Dickinson and daughter spent Sunday in Janesville. Mrs. Fred Smith spent Saturday and Sunday in Madison with friends. Robert and Charles McIntosh on Madison university were home over Sunday with their parents. Steve Madden was in Jefferson, Saturday, on business. Tom Flarity of Milwaukee was home over Sunday with his parents. Hans Jaekle spent Sunday in Janesville with relatives.

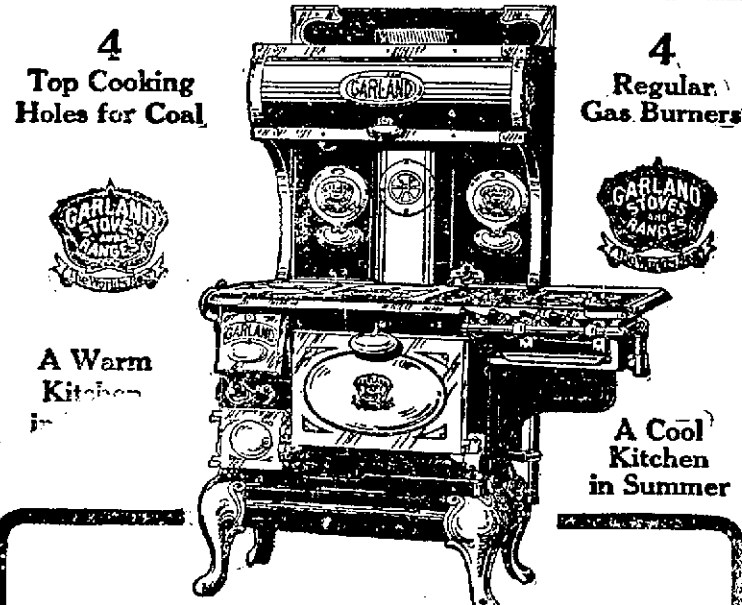

Sport Snap Shots

Once upon a time Frank Baker of the Athletics, one of the greatest sluggers that the game has ever known, was "canned" because of weak hitting. Baker's work with an independent team attracted the attention of one of McGraw's scouts. The scout signed him and Baker was turned over to the Baltimore club of the Eastern league for seasoning. He lasted only a short while and was let out "because he's a pure fielder and he can't hit. Baker began his career as an infielder, but played third base in 1907 with the Cambridge (Md.) club. The man who discovered him was Charles Herzog, now manager of the Cincinnati Reds. Herzog signed Baker at a salary of $5 a week and board to play with the Ridgeley (Md.) club. He played with that club in 1908, went to Cambridge in 1907, to Reading in the Tri-State league in 1908, and was signed up by Connie Mack for the 1909 season.

An animosity, greater than that which existed in the past, will serve to make this world's series the fiercest in point of competition ever played. The Braves have a grudge, a deep-seated grudge. Johnny Evers unconsciously revealed the attitude of his club a couple of days ago, when he fiercely declared, "There's more than the world's series coin at stake, more than the world's championship at stake in this series. Remember how the Athletics refused to listen to talk of the threatened strike during the season when the fraternity ordered a strike unless Player Kraft was treated fairly. Mind you these fellows were the only ones who refused to stand by us in our efforts to get justice. We'll make them pay for that. We haven't forgotten, and we won't forget."

Georges Carpentier will do his future battling in the United States. The wizard French heavyweight will not be able to appear in the ring on European soil for some time after the war. When the nations of Europe decide the slaughter has gone far enough and decide on peace there will not be money enough left to pack a house at 25 cents per. At least there will not be enough money available to induce any fight promoter to attempt to stage a battle with Carpentier. So Georges will find good picking on this side of the Atlantic, in fact the only picking he can find will be in the United States. Carpentier is safe and sound in France. His job is driving an officer's automobile. The French are taking care to keep their idol out of range of German bullets.

Tom Seaton of the Brooklyn Feds would not be bothered by the strict rulings recently made in the National and American leagues against the use of the emery ball, were he still in organized ball. Tom gets the same effect by clawing the leather cover of the sphere with his finger nails, which are said to be especially stout. By judicious application a roughed spot, which answers all requirements, is obtained. A strict interpretation of the rules may bar emery paper, but there is nothing in the by-laws of baseball that regulates manicure styles.
